

Borough-Township Alarmed By Flood Conditions In Areas

The Board of Commissioners of Bristol Township and Bristol Borough Council, last evening, decided to press for immediate action on the part of the State in removing the flood threat, which now is hanging over sections of both the Township and the Borough.

The Commissioners and Council met in joint session to discuss the problem.

The drainage problem, which is in the process of being created by the Mill Creek and Black Ditch watersheds, is due to the change in the watershed from rolling farmland to a built-up area of roads and houses. The built-up sections primarily being Fairless Hills and Levittown. "The problem is unfortunately," said William S. Erwin, Bristol Township Engineer, "more applicable to Bristol Twp. because of the convergence of the two watersheds within Bristol Twp. where they empty into Silver Lake. However, Bristol Borough will be affected because of the limited areas of present bridges over Otter Creek."

Meeting in the Bristol Council chamber, those assembled were called to order by Francis J. Byers, president of Bristol Borough Council. Mr. Byers introduced George Sottung, president of Bristol Twp. Commissioners, saying that the meeting was being held at the invitation of Mr. Sottung. President Sottung was then invited to take the chair and conduct the meeting.

Briefly outlining the threatened flood condition, Sottung invited Mr. Erwin to address the group.

Erwin pinned to the wall maps showing engineering surveys and also an aerial map of the area. He explained how the drainage from Fairless Hills and Levittown, flowing into the Black Ditch now back up at Green Lane, and Magnolia road. He said that Mill Creek, Queen Anne Creek and Black Ditch drain a 20 sq. mile area, all the water finally converging into Silver Lake. He spoke of the flood conditions in the area at Prickett's corner and called attention to the fact that the small bridges at Green Lane and at Magnolia Road create "bottle-necks" and prevent the water from getting away. He said that Levitt and Sons had dug a 75-foot ditch starting at the Bolton Farm, down to Mill Creek road, where it was cut down to 63 feet, then a portion of the old ditch was cleaned out to 25 feet.

Bickergen, vice consul of the Netherlands, in Phila. It revealed a tragic chapter in the chequered history of the Netherlands. The message was addressed in particular to the United States, stressing the sympathetic response of thousands of Americans to the plight of flood-raged Holland. The complete text reads as follows:

Ordeal by Water in The Netherlands

The first week of February, 1952, has written a tragic chapter in the chequered history of the Netherlands.

This country, which for centuries has fought a mighty battle against the turbulent waters of ocean, sea and river, was suddenly overwhelmed by floods unprecedented in the nation's memory. An unexpected and unpredictable combination of storms and high tides on the night of Saturday, January 31, and the early hours of Sunday, February 1, battered for hours against the dykes which had for so long defied the waters. Most of them withstood the hammering, but when the abnormally high tide cascaded

Find Harry C. Dickel Dead at His Home

Falls Township—A faithful dog kept watch for more than two days at the feet of his dead master at a home along old Route 13, three miles east of Tullytown. When discovery of the death of Harry C. Dickel, age about 72, was made early last evening, the dog was lying on the floor close to Dickel's feet.

It is presumed by authorities that Mr. Dickel had died Saturday morning, death being attributed to coronary occlusion.

The date of death is set by two factors, condition of the body, and by the fact that the morning newspapers of Saturday, Sunday and Monday had not been taken into the house. There were no lights on, indicating that death had no doubt occurred during the day-time.

Mr. Dickel was in process of selling some of his farm-land to William Levitt & Sons, and it is believed settlement was to have been made

BLOOD DONORS TRANSPORTATIONS

Bristol Blood Donors report the transportation of King Bell, 623 Race street, to his home from the office of a local physician; Master Gregory Phillips, 529 Court B, Terrace II, to his home from the office of a local physician; Charles Hurrah, Oak avenue, Langhorne R. D. 4, returned from Abington Hospital.

The Lower Bucks County Branch of the Pennsylvania Economy League in its report on the survey of Bristol Borough public schools presented to the school board last night in special session recommended that the school board enter upon a program of replacement of all borough's elementary schools except the Jefferson avenue school.

The League report pointed out that all elementary buildings except the Jefferson school were built in the last century and that, while these schools met the architectural and educational standards of that time, they do not measure up to current standards and their cost of maintenance and operation becomes increasingly expensive each year. Detailed descriptions and evaluations of each school building are given in the report. In commenting on the elementary schools, Ralph Swan, League educational specialist, who presented the report said, "From the standpoint of educational centers the Wood street and Washington street schools are located on very small sites and therefore lack the necessary playground space for outdoor activities. They are also located at busy commercial street intersections which is undesirable from a safety factor and, with all surrounding area built-up, there is no means of expanding the size of these sites at any reasonable cost. The buildings are old, and of a type of construction that does not lend itself to economical rehabilitation. The cost of maintaining and operating such buildings becomes increasingly expensive. When we add all these factors up and weigh them we find that from the standpoint of good elementary educational centers as well as economy of operation in the years ahead, the only answer is the abandonment of these two buildings and sites and their replacement with a new elementary school on a more desirable site."

"The Bath street site, which is not crowded against the corner of a busy commercial area street intersection as are the Wood and Washington schools, can serve the elementary needs of all pupils west of the old canal for the foreseeable future. However, the school there is very much in the same category as Wood and Washington street schools and again the most economical approach on a long term basis is its replacement with a new building."

"Fortunately, the Jefferson avenue school with some rehabilitation can serve the community well for several years to come. Any expansion of this site which could be accomplished at reasonable cost would be desirable."

Swan pointed out that the report's findings definitely show that the Borough's real problem in school plant is the need of replacement of elementary schools and that the high school while needing some renovation is adequate to serve the needs of the school district for several years. This is especially true in view of the removal of Bristol Township high school pupils from the Borough and the findings of the long range enrollment projections.

The report contains the following recommendations pertaining to the high school:

"1. That the erection of new or expanded facilities be held in abeyance until the completion of the recommended elementary building program. The reasons for the recommendation include:

(a) Enrollment projections do not indicate enrollments

THE THREE A'S

A letter to the editor of a metropolitan newspaper points out that children need discipline, which would not have been considered a newsworthy thought several decades ago. It agreed with a psychiatrist that children all need "attention, affection and acceptance," but not at the expense of discipline or as a substitute for it.

Parents are in revolt against the guilt and uncertainty which poorly expressed psychiatrist theories have imposed on them. They are doing the best they can, most of them, and they do not like being told that anything that goes "wrong" is the parents' fault.

The revolt is probably unfair to psychiatrists and educators with a similar viewpoint. Few if any of them are opposed to discipline. There is no reason why a child cannot have good manners, respect property and other people's rights, and still get all the "attention, acceptance and affection" he needs. Actually the two are complementary. Affection and discipline both contribute to a child's sense of security. Affection without discipline is as bad as discipline without affection.

There was a time when some psychiatrists and educators put all the stress on affection. A generation or two ago, many parents and teachers were unnecessarily severe. They had the foolish idea that too much affection "spoiled" a child.

Child experts were not always aware of how important discipline is to a child's sense of security, but they were right in concluding that most children got too much discipline and too little affection. So they threw their weight on the other side.

Today, a balance is being struck. It is better understood now that a child whose parents do not discipline him—don't set limits and hold him to them—cannot feel too sure of their affection. Children know they need guidance, and sometimes punishment. They sense that the affection of parents who withhold this kind of help isn't very robust.

But affection is still the primary need—for adults as well as for children. The child—who is loved, wanted and respected will rarely need harsh treatment to keep him in line. Human rights are not for adults only.

At any rate those dummies used in the recent A-bomb tests will not be able to write a newspaper series on "How I Lived Through Hell."

Skepticism as to the efficacy of wonder drugs is inevitable when it becomes apparent none can help spring fever.

One searches in vain for an explanation of why a territory of the U. S. would want to become a state, with all the metamorphosis entailed in the form of new laws, taxes and politicians.

JESUS was taken before the Roman procurator, Pontius Pilate, who declared, "I find no fault in this man" and ordered Him taken to King Herod. Pilate asserted that he could not find Jesus guilty of the charges brought against Him and pointed out that Herod had taken no action against Him either.

J. Hetherington, Sr. spoke of their observations of the flood conditions in the area under discussion. Mr. Erwin, in his recommendation said, that the Bucks County Commissioners should be contacted and a meeting arranged, as soon as possible, in regard to the construction of bridges over Green Lane and Magnolia Road. He suggested that Levitt and Sons be urged to complete the 63 feet wide waterway on their own property as far as Mill Creek. He said that a drainage study of Mill Creek and Queen Anne Creek should be made at once, as some bridges in this watershed will be bound to be of inadequate cross-section.

Mr. Erwin continuing, said the possibilities of acquiring swamp-land adjacent to the Black Ditch by the Township should be thoroughly explored for the following reasons: "Land values should be cheaper now than in the future, when ditch is widened, excavated material could be used for dike along stream bed and land in back of dike could be reclaimed for future park area by using as refuse disposal area. Bucks County Planning Commission recommends a future park and recreation area along Black Ditch, this would give the township a recreation area in the middle of the township and what will soon be a highly residential area and Silver Lake will be become increasingly necessary as a playground for township residents."

He said that "the future flow of Erwin said, that he did not believe the drainage caused pollution. President Sottung named a committee of Burgess Hetherington; Councilmen Nicholas Pascale, J. S. Lynn, and Commissioners, Oscar Booz, and Frank Hibbs and Fred K. Hibbs, to arrange for the conference with State officials. Representatives of Bristol Blood Donors Association, which has spent considerable time and money in developing Silver Lake as a bathing beach, were present. The Association is about to arrange for the resurfacing of the beaches on the Bristol side of the lake, but hesitate about doing so, until it is definitely determined what conditions will exist in the future.

burning lumber and equipment from the building.

Russell said he did not think any part of the building would need replacing. Although the flames blackened about 80 per cent of the inside of the roof, they did not burn to the outside.

The storehouse was recently constructed of cinder blocks on the site of a smaller shed the Kains formerly used. Food stored in the new building was separated from the flames by a cinder block wall, and apparently suffered only smoke damage.

The building has a sloping roof, Russell said, which is about 12 feet high in the rear and 18 feet in front. The flames touched the roof in the rear, where the fire started. The firemen were about an hour putting out the blaze.

tomorrow. A representative of the Levitt firm went to the Dickel residence early last evening to see Mr. Dickel. Receiving no response to his knock, he walked around the house, and it was then he saw Mr. Dickel sitting in a chair by the window, his left foot propped up on a radiator. Believing that Mr. Dickel was dead, the visitor, whose name could not be ascertained, called Levittown police. This being out of their territory, Falls Twp. police were notified, and they, in turn, summoned Dr. Wm. Goldfarb, Bristol, deputy coroner of Bucks county.

The dog made no objections when the authorities entered the house, but did when attempt was made to move the body of Mr. Dickel. Mr. Dickel was a retired farmer. He was a charter member of Morrisville Rotary Club, and a member of Bristol Lodge, No. 25, F. and A. M. A daughter, Mrs. Margaret D. Two Croydon Residents Hurt in Crash

Two Croydon residents, and a Newportville man were rushed to Bristol General Hospital about two o'clock this morning for treatment of injuries sustained, when the cars they were driving crashed in a head-on collision on Newportville road, between Hulmeville and Newportville.

The car driven by Edward Ebert, 33, of 987 Maple avenue, Croydon, with Mrs. Ann Ebert, 32, a passenger, was traveling south on Newportville road. The car of James Duncan, 22, of Craig avenue, Newportville was traveling north on Newportville road and making a wide right turn on a bend in the road collided head on with Ebert's car.

Edward Ebert suffered knee and forehead injuries. Mrs. Ann Ebert received cuts of the leg. Both were detained at Bristol General Hospital. Duncan suffered possible head injuries and a knocked-out tooth, he was transferred to Philadelphia Naval Hospital by the Rescue Squad following treatment at Bristol General Hospital.

The entire front end of Duncan's car was demolished. The left front end of Ebert's car was damaged an estimated $300.

Officer Bentley Chapin, Bristol township police, investigated.

Says "Green Thumb" Not Needed to Grow Things

(By INS)

PHILADELPHIA — If you believe the successful home gardener needs a "green thumb" for good results, Richard A. Snellings will be happy to give you an argument. Snellings is the youthful president of an ancient horticultural firm.

He claims all a home gardener needs for good results are "common sense and planning."

This applies especially in early Spring, Snellings declares, when home gardeners should "check their lawns carefully to see what reseed-ing, fertilization and rolling will be necessary to condition the lawn."

He suggests making this check any frost-free day when the worst frosts are over in your section of the country. Snellings points out that reseeded early means new grass will come up and be much stronger, healthier and deeply rooted to withstand hot summer weather. Snellings also says it's a good idea to spread a little fertilizer on the lawn several weeks before reseeded since most commercially sold fertilizers should be given time to dissolve and seep in to the ground in order to avoid burning of seeds or tender new plants.

Early spring is also a good time to use the new chemical soil conditioners. Snellings advises that liquid soil conditioners are best applied to the surface of cultivated soil and powdered forms should be mixed thoroughly with the soil as it is prepared.

This will leave only planting to be done when warm weather arrives, Snellings says. He adds that any home gardener who wants to start long germinating plants in inside window boxes should give the seedlings the brightest window in the house. He calls 70 to 75 degrees ideal for the germination of most seeds, but suggests lowering the temperature to 50-60 degrees after the seeds have germinated to keep them compact and stocky.

This gardening expert says simple know-how and careful planning will eliminate most of the woes of the average home gardener. Snellings estimates that of the 25,000,000 home gardeners in the country, more than 75 per cent confine their activities to the lawn. Unfortunately, professional gardeners estimate that more than 75 per cent of the seed and least 50 per cent of the labor and money put into lawn gardening is wasted through lack of knowledge — and not enough work.

One reason for this, says Snellings, is the amateur belief that gardening is confined to a flurry of activity from April or May to August or September. Actually, he declares, gardening enthusiasts have pretty much a year-round job, especially in early spring.

PERSPIRATION STAINS

By International News Service

Perspiration stains in clothing can be removed by several methods. If you want to restore color in fabric, try smelling salts, or hold the stain over a bottle of ammonia so the alkaline fumes bring back the color affected by perspiration acid.

AUBURN, Ala.—(INS)—

The role the little egg plays in cooking has been pointed up by an Auburn nutritionist. Mary Hulsey reminded housewives: "Eggs can be used to thicken a custard or sauce, to leaven or lighten a soufflé or cake, and to hold together oil and vinegar in making mayonnaise."

Organize Council

 County Branch of the Phila. Society for Crippled Children and Adults, was elected secretary.
 The officers were unanimously elected, after being nominated by the chairman of the nominating committee, Miss Marie Holland, associate supervisor of home service of Bucks County Red Cross chapter.

The purpose of the Community Service Council, Miss Berton announced, is "to coordinate the programs of the health, welfare and recreational agencies that serve Bucks County; to study existing programs to determine whether the services adequately meet community needs; to recommend establishment of non-existent services and develop public understanding of the health, welfare and recreational problems of the community."

Membership in the council, she said, is open to all organizations that perform health, welfare, recreational and other civic work in the community. The Council will have the same board of directors as the Services Federation, she said, and its actions will be subject to the approval of the board.

The meeting was opened by Ralph B. Dwinell, chairman of the sponsoring committee for the Council, which was appointed in September. The social welfare officials attending applauded Dwinell for his work with the committee.

"This Council has been projected for a number of years," the committee chairman said, "but the present social and health and welfare demands, due to the rapid expansion of Bucks County, stimulated its organization."

Following the election, he turned the chair over to Miss Berton, who presided in the absence of Mrs.

Perry. "I've worked for this so many years it's just about too much to be a reality," Miss Berton said. "I'm glad that I'm part of it."
 It was decided to appoint a special committee to draft by-laws for presentation at the next meeting. Adrian P. Hoffman, executive director of the County Services Federation, addressed the group and announced that he is preparing a directory of welfare organizations for Bucks County, to be listed by name and field of service. He suggested that the Council name a committee to work with him on the project.

The time and place of the next Council meeting place will be announced by the officers.

Last night's organization meeting followed four separate conferences held with officials of health, welfare, recreational and other civic organizations.

Serving with Dwinell on the sponsoring committee were Miss Berton, Miss Jesse Brittingham director of Bucks County Girl Scout Council; John Burriss, guidance director of Bristol Borough public schools; Mrs. Kermit Fischer, president of Bucks County Mental Health Society; Furuno; Mrs. William F. Grunewald, president of Doylestown Village Improvement Association; Miss Holland; Raymond W. Hoxworth, director of Bucks County Boy Scout Council; O. E. Norbeck, of the Penna. YMCA, Bristol; William J. Plunkert, consultant of the United Community Defense Services of New York; Richard Steinman, executive secretary of Welcome House; Mrs. Emma P. Stover, of Bucks County Tuberculosis and Health Society; Mrs. Mildred E. Stow, executive director of the Phila. Society for Crippled Children and Adults and Mrs. Kathryn H. Graham, Red Cross area field representative.

SMOOTH-RUNNING HOME SHOULD FILL EMOTIONAL NEEDS

By Frances Vannoy
Home Economics
Extension Representative

The family is the smallest, the oldest, and perhaps the social organization most important to the well being of the individual, according to Miss Marguerite F. Little, Penn State child development and family life extension specialist. Running a home smoothly is a cooperative venture, not the entire responsibility of the homemaker.

Emotional needs of each family member must be satisfied principally within the family, she points out. One of these is the need to be loved and understood. From infancy the child reaches out for a satisfying of this need much as a plant seeks the sunshine. Dr. W. C. Menninger of the Menninger Clinic, Topeka, Kansas, states "Our deepest satisfactions do not come from technological advances; they come because of our capacity to love and to be loved by our parents, our family, our friends, and the world. Our ability to participate in these relationships determines our mental health."

A second emotional need is to have the feeling of being accepted, accepted for what you are. A child needs freedom to grow in his own way.

The feeling of being needed and wanted goes with the child as he ventures into the world and with the man as he faces his day's work. People never outgrow wanting to feel that they are needed and wanted, says Miss Little.

The need for a feeling of success makes you want to keep on trying. Praise and recognition are among the good things in life and mean most when they come from those closest to you.

The family is the springboard launching the individual into the world. When emotional needs are met through the family, strong healthy people are ready to meet everyday problems and frustrations. A more complete consideration of the emotional needs of the individual is given in leaflet No. 155, "Deep in the Family." Free copies of this leaflet may be obtained upon request to the Agricultural Extension office in Doylestown.

Playoff Tonight For Championship Title Of Basketball League

The 1952-53 playoff championship of the Bristol Basketball League will be decided tonight as Franklin A. C. meets Kaiser Metal in the third game of their series on the Rohm & Haas court. There will not be a preliminary game with the championship tilt starting at 8 o'clock.

Franklin, defending champions of the loop, won the first game of the playoffs while on Sunday, Kaiser Metal retaliated and was triumphant over the Franklin boys. This is Kaiser Metal's first season in the Bristol Basketball League.

Franklin was off in its shooting Sunday but Manager Pete DeLuca feels confident that his boys will snap out of the doldrums and begin to cut the cords. The Franks missed a great percentage of their shots which would have made Sunday's tilt much closer. Only at the start of the final period did the Franklin team play the brand of ball that carried it to the playoffs.

Manager DeLuca is still sticking to his first string lineup of Bob Lattanzi, Hooks Spencer, Grant Eckert, Eddie Oliver and Bill Curran. He also has the services of Stan Lelinski, who is home on furlough from the U. S. Army. Waiting for reserve duty will be Vince DiTanna, Kenny Martin, Howard Keys, Bill Mobley, and Bob DiTullo.

Kaiser Metal appeared strong in its victory Sunday. Coach Devon Shith and Manager Peter Harkins were without the services of Charlie Simmons, Sonny Peak and Joe Gavin. The latter injured his shoulder in a tilt last Friday night and should he return to the Kaiser lineup will strengthen it considerably.

Coach Smith intends to start Tom Gavin, Howard Grant, Eddie Boyle, Jerry Bloom and Jim Gallagher. Another question mark in the Kaiser lineup will be Johnny Rodgers, scrappy diminutive forward. Rodgers is in the U. S. Army Air Corps, stationed at Bolling Field, Washington, D. C. and it is not known whether he will be able to make the game.

beyond the capacity of the high school building.

(b) It is altogether possible that a careful study of the possibilities and the advantages of an area trade and vocational school or the development of the complete high school program on a larger community basis may have very important implications with regard to the best possible secondary program for the pupils of Bristol Borough and Finally.

(c) The building needs of the elementary schools are much more critical than those of the secondary schools.

2. That concurrently, and in conjunction with the elementary building program, the following building alterations and changes in organization be made to improve the secondary facilities.

(a) All elementary children be removed from the high school building and placed in an elementary school. The seventh grade, which is a part of the secondary school and is presently housed in the Jefferson avenue building should be moved to the high school building to improve its program through better utilization of facilities, materials and the staff of the high school.

(b) The high school building, when used only for the pupils of the secondary school (grades 7-12), should be altered to better serve these pupils. This renovation program should contemplate improvements in the following respects:

1. A science suite instead of classrooms scattered throughout the building.
2. A music suite with adequate storage.
3. Special rooms such as health, pupil activities and conference should be provided according to the program of the school.
4. Additional storage space throughout the building.
5. Expanded facilities for the central administration of the school system.

In the first chapter of the report, the Economy League reviews the characteristics of Bristol Borough pertinent to the school system stating that it has had a "history of progressive growth." The report finds no major problems in the matter of pupil transportation and accessibility to school buildings.

The history of the Borough's population is traced from 1890 showing that the number of inhabitants has almost doubled since that time. Using census figures, birth rate data and school enrollment trends the League estimates that elementary enrollments including kindergarten will increase slightly over the next several years from the present total of about 900 pupils to about 1,000. High school enrollments are predicted to increase from the current figure of a little less than 600 resident pupils to about 700 in ten years.

The League report finds the school district in sound financial condition noting that the board has nearly completed wiping out its bonded debt, has financed recent capital improvements out of current revenues and has set aside some reserve earmarked as a building fund.

It is noted that for the last fiscal year the total expenditures of the school district amounted to $240 per pupil compared to a statewide average figure of $251 per pupil.

The report also shows that tax rates have been increased over the past five years due to the increase in costs of education in recent years. Total cost per pupil in 1947-48 were $184 per pupil compared to the $240 figure for 1951-52. This, says the League report, is because "this period of time has seen improved teacher salary scales mandated by the state legislature as well as substantial increases in most cost figures in our economy."

In summarizing the report Swan stated, "This report contains recommendations which our survey indicates are the soundest and most economical approaches for meeting the long range school plant problems of Bristol Borough. While the report recommends changes it should be borne in mind that a good research report in order to be of most value must necessarily deal primarily with those matters which lend themselves to improvement and devote much less attention to those matters which need little or no change."

"The fact that the present elementary buildings are still in use at this date reflects credit upon the school administrators of the last century in building sound structures which were in keeping with their times. The general appearance of the interiors of these buildings such as the painting of walls and ceilings in light pastel shades and the provision of indirect-direct artificial lighting to compensate for the lack of adequate natural lighting reflects credit upon the current administration's policy of providing the best atmosphere possible in these buildings."

"The objective of this survey and report by the Pennsylvania Economy League is to bring together in an orderly manner under one cover the major material facts pertaining to Bristol Borough School District's present school plant facilities and to determine as closely as possible the needs of the future in order to aid the members of the Board of Education in their very difficult problem of determining what they must do to provide the necessary school plant facilities at the best possible price for the citizens of the community not only now but in the years ahead."

The Pennsylvania Economy League is the statewide non-profit, non-partisan governmental research organization which provides research, survey and consulting service to all levels of government in Pennsylvania. The Lower Bucks County Branch of the League was formed in 1952. Irving Warner, Jr., of Morrisville, is Chairman of League's Executive Committee for Lower Bucks.

Sextet Represents

in bitter violence over the tops of or through gaps torn in believed safe sea defences, the peaceful villages and scattered farms were caught in a deadly trap, the water in some places rising 16 feet in less than 15 minutes. Houses were crushed; farms were destroyed; families were drowned in their beds.

By midday on that black Sunday, February 1, about one-eighth of Holland had been flooded. Much of the land wrested from the sea in many centuries of reclamation had temporarily been snatched back.

But the real tragedy for the Dutch was the misery and suffering the calamity had caused—a tragedy that became almost unbelievably staggering as its magnitude was unfolded during the following days.

Told in figures the story is bad enough, with a human deathroll of about 1400, a loss of livestock running into hundreds of thousands, destruction of thousands of buildings and about 500,000 acres of Holland's best agricultural land (its industries are settled elsewhere and safe) not merely ravaged but permeated with salt that will take years to eradicate. But when told in human suffering, it will be an epic in the country's history.

Families died together in one another's arms, or lived together on rooftops and trees for days. Children saw their parents washed away in front of them, and were helpless to save them. A husband gave his life to save a wife: a wife sacrificed herself in the bitter cold to provide warmth for a child. A newly married couple spent their three-day honeymoon alone on nine square yards of dyke in an ocean of angry grey water.

Behind all this dark cloud of suffering, there was seen from Monday the silver lining of unstinting efforts at rescue and relief. A great armada of ships was mobilized all over the country; a mighty land and sea "invasion" of Dutch, British, American, Belgian and French troops poured in to liberate Holland once again; a spectacular fleet of hundreds of aircraft flocked to Dutch skies to carry out one of the most remarkable air-lifts in the history of aviation. Especially the Americans have done a wonderful job. One American pilot of an 8-seater helicopter flew back and forth untrillingly until he had evacuated the entire population of one of the villages. America at its best! The sympathetic response of thousands of Americans to the plight of flood-ravaged Holland probably has built up more good will toward this country than the many costly and elaborately planned official Government programs. When Americans read about the flood devastation, they were not thinking about international understanding. They were reacting as they invariably do to the suffering of individuals. Even before channels were established for the shipment of aid to The Netherlands, Americans began to besiege newspapers, radio stations, Airlines and Steamship Lines for information about where to send their contributions. Tons of clothing and thousands of dollars were donated before the flood waters began to recede.

The tremendous task of reconstruction, rebuilding the dikes, reclaiming the land from the sea again and re-settling of the more than 66,000 people who have lost all they had, has been undertaken and will go on for a long, long time. However, this enormous job has been made so much easier by the fact that the victims of this terrible disaster have received and still are receiving a real helping hand from Americans. The people of The Netherlands are deeply thankful for this help and grateful that they have so many good friends in America.

enough to make any friends," said Judge Biester scanning Hay's record which includes serving 35 days in the Bucks County Prison in 1950 in connection with a motor code violation.

Hays said he was employed near Croydon and that he had been drinking when he took Hanson's car. Chief of Police Joseph O. Seader, of the Bristol Township Police Department, investigated the Croydon crime.

Two counts, larceny and receiving stolen goods, were not pressed. Hays had three arrests in 1944, two in 1938 and 1943. He served 12 months on a larceny charge in 1938, six months for hit-and-run in 1944, and has been in trouble since he was 21.

The ignition keys were in the Croydon man's car when it was driven away by Hays who doesn't remember getting into the car or how he drove to Phila. "I thought I was in a friend's car," he said.

COLORFUL EASTER

Breakfast Menu

Toast Cups with Eggs Goldenrod
Hot Cross Buns

Coffee Tea Milk

Breakfast takes on a special importance on Easter Sunday. Ideal for this occasion is a tempting combination of crisp bacon strips with Goldenrod eggs in toast cups. This is a combination simple to prepare, yet one that makes a gay appearance on your table.

For the best results in cooking a small amount of bacon, place the strips in a single layer in a cold frying-pan. Let it cook slowly, turning the meat occasionally so that it will be evenly cooked. Spoon off the drippings as they accumulate so bacon will not cook in its drippings. Cook until the doneness your family likes, then drain on absorbent paper.

If you're preparing a large amount of bacon, then the easiest method is to roast it, says Roba Staggs, home economist. Cook the same as a roast, that is, place it in a single layer on a rack in an open roasting pan. Set your oven regulator at 300 degrees F. and let it cook until crisp. This way you can go on about preparing the remainder of your menu, giving little attention to the bacon.

Toast cups are simply made. Lightly butter thin slices of crustless bread on both sides, then press down into muffin pans. Let the corners extend above the pan. Toast in a slow oven (300 degrees F.) until crisp. Serve filled with Eggs Goldenrod. Prepare by hard cooking 6 eggs for 4 servings. Separate egg yolks from white. Add chopped egg white to 1½ cups of medium white sauce. Place in toast cups, then sprinkle with egg yolk pressed through a sieve.

FUTURE RUGS

By International News Service
Rugs that can be washed without losing color or curl may be on the market soon. Textile expert Florence King of the University of Illinois reports manufacturers are experimenting with rugs made of knitted Fiber E, a new type of rayon which can be vat dyed, crimped into a permanent curl, and washed. The Fiber E knitted rugs can be made to sell at low prices but will look like regular woven carpeting.
